This Rimy River LIMITED EDITION

Limited to 400 copies, this special edition of the Los Angeles exhibition catalogue uses the regular edition as its starting point but bears it little resemblance. Coming eight years after the Lonely Is An Eyesore deluxe box design it marks another watershed in v23's studio output.

The original page designs have been overprinted with two new layers of artwork. The first overprint, in black, utilises enlarged details of archival artwork which virtually obliterate the existing illustrations and text. This, in turn, is overlaid with one large word per page, running bottom to top in a translucent bronze ink. The words are an extract from Victoria Mitchell's poem Dearest Vaya con Dios Darling, which inspired the exhibition's title This Rimy River.

The resulting palimpsest, more painting than book, is finished with end papers that incorporate snapshots of the LA show bound in a patterned silver foil hardcover, and housed in a luxurious velvet slipcase.

With apologies to the hundreds of enquirers who have waited twelve months for the realisation of this ambitious project, v23 are regretful of the spiralling production costs but are now satisfied with the final design, print and binding techniques.

Cost £150.00 plus postage and packing.

v23 Calendar

"It seems to me that a calendar is for letting you know where you're at," Vulva O'Rheigan, editor, This Rimy River.

With Ms. O'Rheigan's observation in mind, Vaughan Oliver has produced an environmentally themed calendar for 1996. Locations vary from Colin's parents' bedroom in Hull, to Death Valley in California via 4AD's backyard in London SW18. As innovative and intriguing as previous 4AD calendars Oliver rates this production among the studio's most challenging designs. 'It's unusual and quite modern; stimulating and wholly impractical.'

Familiar v23 collaborators continue to surprise; Jim Friedman and his performing snails, Dominic Davies' deathly crime scene and Jason Love's bags of summer goodness. Oliver himself has worked with photographer Ichiro Kono to produce a Christmas tree from a naked Japanese lady and 31 plastic footballers.

Measuring 49cm x 35cm and printed in full colour on superior stock, the calendar comes packaged in a sturdy carton.

Contributors are Colin Gray, Jim Friedman, Cohen /Slatoff, Michele Turriani, Chris Bigg, Simon Larbalestier, Jason Love, Paul McMenamin, Olga Norman and Nicola Schwartz, Adrian Philpott, Tom Croes, Dominic Davies, Ichiro Kono, Adrian Taylor and Vaughan Oliver.

Cost £15.00 plus postage and packing.
